

SENATE PLANS TO PASS CHILD LABOR BILL SOON

Measure to Be Taken Up This Week Despite Opposition by Southern Democrats.

The Senate will take up the child labor bill this week and, under spur of a demand by President Wilson, pass it before adjournment, despite stiff opposition by southern democrats. The feat for the measure will be sought in efforts to attach as a rider the immigration bill, which, with its emergency test, it is believed, might draw a presidential veto. A democratic caucus has been called for tonight to consider united action against the immigration rider.

Senator Kern, majority leader, will urge the democrats to stand by their decision to postpone consideration of immigration legislation until December. A resolution will be proposed in the caucus reaffirming this and expressing opposition to Senator Borah's plan and Senator Poindexter's proposed motion to consider the immigration bill separately at this session.

The main fight on the bill has come from cotton manufacturers in the south and from the National Association of Manufacturers in the north.

Senator Robinson, who reported the bill from the commerce committee, said today he hoped to get it before the Senate by Tuesday, when the pending appropriation bill will have been passed.

Musio's Distinguishing Quality.

From the Atlantic.
Musio finds its perfection in itself without relation to other objects. It is what it is in itself alone. It is not something else; it cannot be translated into other terms. The poet of the thing says a complete union of the thing and the method of saying it. Musio seeks patiently and persistently for the one word which shall not only be the exact symbol of his thought, but which shall fit his copy. The painter, too, seeks the one word, so distributes his colors and so arranges his composition as to make of them plastic mediums for the expression of his thought, and the greatness of his picture depends first of all and inevitably on his power of fusing his subjects with his technique. In sculpture precisely the same process takes place. Neither of these arts actually copies nature; each "arranges" it for its own purpose. In music this much-sought union of matter and manner is complete; the thing said and the method of saying it are one and indivisible. It is, as Pater says, "the ideal of all art whatever, precisely because in music it is impossible to distinguish the form from the substance or matter, the subject from the expression."

Lessening Sales of Drugs.

From the Boston Globe.
The sale of opium and its principal derivatives seems to have become a "drug" on the drug market under the operation of a federal statute known as the Harrison law. It is stated by leading manufacturers that the sales of opium products have fallen off one-third within a short time. This will not be disagreeable news in many communities.

The Harrison law is said to have some weaknesses, but if it is reducing the sales of powerful drugs to many poor, misguided human beings it is making a brave beginning to stop the hitherto wholesale distribution of the article. Physicians are not backward in saying that the liquor habit is far less dangerous and easier to cure than the drug habit. For this reason reliable physicians are also very careful to avoid administering to patients all habit-forming drugs.

SUCCEEDS IN RESCUING AN EXHAUSTED SWIMMER

Hobart E. Berrian, Local Athlete, Hero of Near-Drowning Incident at Atlantic City.

Hobart E. Berrian, well known Washington athlete and for many years connected with the tax office of the District government, figured in a near-drowning incident at Atlantic City Friday, when he swam and succeeded in getting the man safely to shore.

According to a published account, Berrian was swimming several hundred yards off Illinois avenue when he observed a man in distress. By herculean efforts he reached the swimmer just as he was on the verge of going beneath the surf and without aid got him to a place of safety.

An Expert Swimmer.
Berrian, who was prominent in athletics when a student at Georgetown University, is considered one of the best swimmers in Washington, and has been a leader in local amateur boxing circles as well as other forms of sport. He is a veteran of the Spanish war and has traveled around the world.

While on an extended visit to tropical countries some years ago Berrian was taught by the natives how to dive for sharks and kill them with knives. The art consisted of locating a shark asleep in clear and fairly shallow water, as tropical sharks are given to napping, and making a quick dive and equally quick thrust of a sharp knife, which usually thrust the big fish before he was aware of the approach of danger.

Before leaving for Atlantic City last week Berrian said that the fear of sharks could not keep him close to shore, and but for the fact that he was swimming a considerable distance out, it is believed he would have been unable to get to the distressed swimmer Friday in time to save him.

Men's Hats.

From the Chicago News.
Despite wars and famines, civilization continues to progress. Give him time and experience in abundance and man will learn things to his advantage. He may appear to be a little slow, being by nature conservative, but he learns. For example, after some thousands of years he has learned that he can get into a shirt without putting it on over his head. The coat shirt is now worn by nearly all men. Now hats are being studied.

For some centuries man has not been addicted to the hat beautiful, leaving that aesthetic creation to the ornamental sex. He has required his headgear to be utilitarian and comfortable—nothing more. But now its utility and comfort are being assailed by forward-looking iconoclasts. Dr. Reynolds of Chicago avers that the construction of the masculine lid causes baldness and boldly recommends that hats be abandoned altogether. Dr. Skrainka, another health authority, suggests as a compromise a loose-fitting hat, tied under the chin with ribbons.

Quakers and War.

From the London Chronicle.
Conscientious objectors in the past have sometimes modified their anti-war views to meet the circumstances of the time—as, for example, in Pennsylvania, in the middle of the eighteenth century. Here a long line of cannon defended the old Quaker capital against French and Spanish privateers on the principle that a "defensive war" was justifiable. "The Pennsylvania assembly," says Lecky, "in which the Quakers predominated, repeatedly voted military aids to the crown during the French wars, disavowing their act by voting the money only for the king's use, and on one occasion for the purchase of bread, flour, wheat or other grain, the latter being understood to be gunpowder."

U. S. RELIEF EFFORTS MAY COME TO AN END

Germany Regarded as Unlikely to Assent to Great Britain's Conditions.

BERLIN, July 30, via London, July 31.—Although no decision has been announced concerning Great Britain's ultimatum regarding relief work in Belgium and France, and the extension of the system to Poland, the prospects for the great work the American committee has been conducting in Belgium and northern France for the past eight months are not particularly bright. Slight evidence can be found here of any intention to bow to the British demand, and turn over to the inhabitants, in its entirety, the rich harvest into which the German soldier and husbandman is just beginning to push the sickle. The question will be threshed out and a decision made at army headquarters, where Herbert C. Hoover, chairman of the American commission for relief in Belgium, will appear as her former offer, namely, to reserve the commission's work.

Stands by Former Offer.

Inquiries made by the Associated Press here, however, have revealed little cheer for the prolongation of the relief work. Dr. Alfred F. M. Zimmerman, undersecretary for foreign affairs, with whom the Associated Press discussed the question today, declared that, regarding the German-occupied district in Poland, Germany stood by her former offer, namely, to reserve the harvest for the civilian inhabitants and soldiers and police forces of the army of occupation, but refused to go beyond that. When asked whether this offer applied also to occupied France and Belgium, Dr. Zimmerman replied that this was a question which must be decided from headquarters.

However, Dr. Zimmerman continued, should the British carry out their threat and prevent the importation of food supplies for the civilian population, the civilians would be placed on a common footing with the inhabitants of occupied territories who were faring better than the Germans themselves. Enemy civilians, he added, now had many things which the Germans were quite unable to obtain, or obtain only with difficulty.

Planned Big Campaign.

The possible crippling of the relief work has come just at the moment when Mr. Hoover and his colleagues were planning to launch a campaign in the United States for funds with which to continue their work, with the slogan, "Help the German babies" and at a time when the United States had become in the eyes of their beneficiaries in France and Belgium a great world benefactor and the only barrier between them and starvation.

The Associated Press correspondent, who has just returned from a several-hundred-mile automobile trip through northern France, found the most common sign in towns and villages, next to those indicating bombproof shelters against aeroplane attacks, to be the announcement of the agent of the American relief commission. Everywhere the correspondent heard testimonials of gratitude for the work of the commission.

Forehanded.

HUGHES IS IN NEW YORK TO BE NOTIFIED TONIGHT

Will Remain in City Until Wednesday Confering With Party Leaders From Many Sections.

NEW YORK, July 31.—Charles E. Hughes came here this morning from his summer home in Bridgehampton preparatory to the ceremony tonight in Carnegie Hall, at which he will be officially notified that he has been nominated for the presidency. The nominee spent the day in consultation with party leaders from all parts of the country. Senator Warren Harding of Ohio, National Chairman Wilcox and various members of the campaign committee. Mr. Hughes will return to Bridgehampton Wednesday and remain there until he leaves on his western campaign tour.

The Hughes headquarters in the Astor Hotel here had the busiest day since it was opened. Republican leaders from every state in the Union were present. It was announced that more than 7,000 persons had applied for tickets to the notification ceremony. Carnegie Hall seats only 2,200 persons.

Theodore Roosevelt will, it is understood, attend the ceremony tonight, accompanied by his wife. Former President Taft telegraphed today from Canada that he would be unable to arrive, saying in his telegram to James E. McInerney, secretary of the national committee, that he regretted that he could not be present at "a great occasion, to which a great speech, an augury of victory."

Mr. Hughes' speech of acceptance tonight will be heard by Mrs. Hughes, the nominee's two eldest daughters and Charles E. Hughes, Jr.

ARAB ARMY TAKES YEMBO, INCLUDING TURKISH FORT

Grand Sheriff of Mecca, Who Led Revolt, Putting His House in Order.

LONDON, July 31, 1:55 p.m.—An Arab force, dispossessed of the Hijaz coast of the Red sea after the fall of Jeddah, has captured the Turkish town and fort of Yembo, says a dispatch from Cairo to Reuters' Telegram Company. The troops in the Turkish garrison were made prisoners and guns and munitions were captured.

Apparently, the dispatch adds, the grand sheriff of Mecca is putting his house in order. He is arranging for the publication of a weekly official journal whereby news and opinions may be conveyed to the people. He has appointed an Arab to collect the customs at Jeddah, has nominated directors to study hygiene in the army and has named a competent police instructor.

The grand sheriff of Mecca, the chief magistrate of the holy city, proclaimed his independence of Ottoman rule early in June, and was supported by Arab tribes in the west and the central parts of Arabia. The sheriff began operations about June 9, and in a short time captured the garrisons of Mecca, Jeddah, the chief seaport of Arabia, and the town of Taif.

Yembo is the Red sea port of the city of Medina, which lies 125 miles to the west. Yembo is situated on a low, sandy and bare tract and has a sheltered harbor. It is a place of transit for pilgrims from Egypt to the holy cities of Arabia.

DUTCH MAIL STEAMSHIP IS WRECKED BY MINE

Passengers Taken Off in Ship's Boats, Which Attempt to Reach Coast.

LONDON, July 31, 4:05 p.m.—The Dutch mail steamship Konigin Wilhelmina has struck a mine near the North Hinder lightship, says a dispatch from The Hague to Reuters' Telegram Company.

The captain of the Konigin Wilhelmina reported by wireless telegraph that his ship had struck a mine near North Hinder and that only the aft part of the vessel was out of the water. Boats with the passengers left the steamer, but after a while returned. Later the passengers again took to the boats and are proceeding to the Dutch coast.

Steamers and torpedo boat destroyers have been dispatched to the assistance of the Konigin Wilhelmina.

The Dutch mail steamer Konigin Wilhelmina was a steel paddle boat and plied between Flushing and Sheerness. The vessel was of 1,944 tons gross, 329 feet long, thirty feet beam and sixteen feet deep. She was built at Glasgow in 1895.

GERMAN ZEPPELIN AGAIN RAIDS COAST OF ENGLAND

Attacked by British Airman, Who Is Stunned While Engaged in Duel.

LONDON, July 31, 12:40 p.m.—The second raid within a week of the east coast of England by a Zeppelin airship was made this morning, and an official statement announcing the raid says the airship was engaged by a British aeroplane.

The official statement follows: "At 5:15 o'clock this morning one of our aeroplanes pursued and attacked a Zeppelin thirty miles off the east coast. The pilot had fired more than two trays of ammunition into the Zeppelin when he was temporarily incapacitated by a portion of his machine gun firing off and stunning him. The Zeppelin was nowhere to be seen when the pilot regained consciousness. He was, therefore, forced to return to his station."

BERLIN, July 30, via London, July 31.—When the Zeppelin airships raided the English coast the night of July 28, a statement issued by the German Admiralty today asserts, bombs were dropped on the British naval bases of Grimsby and Immingham. Despite the use of anti-aircraft guns, all the airships returned home undamaged.

Don't Prophesy.

From the Atlantic.
The ways of the prophet have been especially hard since Shakespeare wrote the line about Sir Oracle. No amount of syntax, scholarship, massive display of erudition, or manly courage can shield a man from ridicule whose mind is habitually accurate. Once a man mounds the tripod on drink, the drama, the church or feminist, his friends begin to leave earlier than usual. The ancient human instinct to leave a prophet to his prophecy is wholesome. If his prophecy comes true, well and good; that is his reward. Meanwhile, as to the subjects of his prophecy, it is a good thing that a man will continue to think his own runs about as good as anybody else's. Why shouldn't he?

VICTIM HERE IS CLAIMED BY INFANTILE PARALYSIS

First Death in District From Disease Reported Today—Is Miss Emma B. Ward.

Washington's first death of the year from infantile paralysis was reported officially to the health department today.

The victim was Miss Emma B. Ward, twenty-four years old, who was taken ill last Tuesday and died Saturday at the home of Mrs. J. H. Klopfer, 507 B street northeast.

Although recorded as infantile paralysis, attending physicians were doubtful as to the character of the disease, which first was thought to be typhoid fever and subsequently spinal meningitis.

Theory Advanced Late.

The infantile paralysis theory was advanced toward the end of her illness. In view of the requirement of the District regulations that any person suffering from symptoms that so resemble infantile paralysis that they cannot be distinguished therefrom without reasonable certainty shall be regarded as suffering from the disease, the attending physicians recorded the death as resulting from acute anterior poliomyelitis, or infantile paralysis.

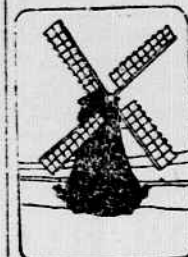

Miss Ward, whose home was at Rockville, Md., had been employed in Washington for a number of years. Funeral services were to have been held in the Rockville Methodist church at 2 o'clock this afternoon, but County Health officer Pratt on learning that the case had been reported as infantile paralysis, directed that services be held only at the grave.

With the exception of this doubtful case, the disease has not appeared in the District in more than a week. Of the seven original cases, a fourth recovery was reported today, which leaves only three patients suffering from the disease, and these have it in mild form.

Health department officials are now giving attention to the typhoid fever problem. As there is annually an increase in this disease every fall the department believes that the malady is often imported by vacationists. Health authorities advise all Washingtonians and especially vacationists to take the anti-typhoid serum as the surest way to avoid contracting this disease.

Italian Steamer Reported Sunk.

LONDON, July 31.—The Italian steamship Dandolo of 4,377 tons gross has been sunk, according to an announcement made today at Lloyd's shipping agency. The Dandolo was formerly the Muggiano and was built at Spezia in 1906. She was 311 feet long, forty-eight feet beam and twenty-eight feet deep. Venice was her home port.
